

Cylinder Head Temperature Probe - Type J

Universal CHT Probe (CHT-511)

- Unique non-welded construction
- Advanced alloy materials
- Fast response to temperature changes
- Quick locking, no-weld installation for easy replacement
- Built to mil-spec requirements
- Guaranteed 1000 hours or 2 years after date of purchase from a Universal Authorized Distributor
- Nut type mounting available

Universal's model CHT-511 Probe (Type J) is applicable to any type of aircraft cylinder head temperature indicator that uses a Type J thermocouple as its electrical source. Model CHT-511 is designed to universally replace all grounded (Type J) thermocouples regardless of manufacturer.

Installation is simple, requiring no welding or special tools.

WHAT MAKES UNIVERSAL CHT PROBES SUPERIOR?

Produced in compliance with stringent military specifications, all material and workmanship that goes into the production of Universal's probes assures controlled quality.

Universal Corporation has been producing aircraft products since 1969.

Please see for yourself the next time you need a new CHT probe.
Ask for Universal by name.